

HIV/AIDS has denied many children the natural right of being raised up by their parents. Several parents have been victims of untimely death and left a legacy of children without any financial or social support. Children as young as 9 years have risen to the status of being parents to their siblings, in other circumstances aging grandparents find themselves becoming parents to these orphans. Funds are needed to meet the day to day upkeep of these unfortunate families.

In African set-up grandparents security rests with her son for basics like feeding, clothing and care for her

1. Help and educate African grannies on AIDS.
2. Help grannies establish income generating activities.
3. Become a granny beyond borders

In Africa, many elderly people are left with no one to care for them. They need help for basics like feeding, clothing and care for health and education.
